

The Chinese University of Hong Kong
School of Journalism and Communication

Before the academic year begins, the School of Journalism and Communication selected particular courses to be open to IASP students. This course list is available on the homepage of Office of Academic Links (OAL) which helped to coordinate course registration before classes commence.

During the Add/Drop Period, student requests for adding/dropping courses are processed in CUSIS (Chinese University Student Information System). The School does not intend to open additional courses to IASP students. Registration of courses is subject to quota availability and fulfillment of pre-requisite requirements.

According to the School's enrollment policy, courses with fewer than 10 students in total will be cancelled after the first week of classes.

Thank you for your kind attention.

School of Journalism and Communication
The Chinese University of Hong Kong