Volunteering Yourself. Make Your Summer Fruitful - NGO Voluntary Opportunities

Ever thought of volunteering yourself to give back to the world, and at the same time benefit from gaining real work experience?

Do not underestimate your power to change the world, a tiny effort could give beneficial impacts to the lives of others. Inspire yourself and those around you starting from this summer. Join our recruitment talk cum panel discussion to learn more about the exclusive opportunities to CUHK students:

Date : 8 April 2009 (Wednesday)

Time : 4:30pm to 6:00pm

Venue : LT3, Teaching Complex at Western Campus (TCW)

Registration: <https://www.cuhk.edu.hk/osa/aps/seminar/ibform.htm>

Openings : 1. Divisional Assistant in various departments
2. Regular Voluntary Helper

Recognition : Upon completion of internship, student will receive a testimonial from the organization to honor his/her contributions.

It's not about the tangible rewards you can receive from volunteering, it is the transferrable skills that pave way to securing a graduate offer. Employer looks for soft skill such as problem solving, interpersonal skill and team spirit in a candidate; it is important for a student to demonstrate how s/he has actualized these skills in an office environment, not just in extracurricular activities or tutoring. The volunteering experience will be a very impressive accomplishment on your CV, and strong evidence of your determination, commitment and passion to life.

If you are still thinking how to spend your summer, why don't take out some time to explore your interest in a specific job function, before committing yourself to it as a graduate career? You may discover your real edge in the new challenges. Remember, the more you give, the more you get.
