China's Cultural Heritage

Course description

Cultural heritage has emerged as a new arena of significant conflict and controversy in the global context. This course will examine how cultural heritage calls a growing concern in China and why it is becoming a new social phenomenon. This course will discuss the conservation, management, uses, and social-political issues of China's cultural heritage. This course will also introduce the cultural and historical background of several types of cultural heritage as well as their long-term impacts on contemporary Chinese society.

Course objectives:

Students taking this course can expect to:

- Gain familiarity with basic concepts and origins of cultural heritage.
- Become acquainted with some essential cultural heritage sites and their social-political importance in contemporary China.
- Understand the meanings and development of Chinese cultures by analyzing tangible and intangible heritage, from capitals, villages, mausoleums, grottos, to rituals, customs, and craftsmanship.
- Explore recent challenges to the management and preservation of cultural heritage in contemporary China and identify possible solution.
- Develop familiarity with critical aspects in heritage studies including debates about the heritage and nationalism, tourism, etc.

Learning outcomes:

After taking this course, students are expected to:

1. Know the major categories and historical background of cultural heritage in mainland China;
2. Be able to evaluate the value of cultural heritage and be inspired to explore issues inherited in the movement of “heritagization”;
3. To identify new methods addressing social issues involved in projects of cultural heritage;
4. Cultivate the abilities of cross-cultural, inter-disciplinary and critical thinking.

Submission and academic honesty

As required by the university, from Sept. 2008, students must submit a soft copy of their computer-generated text assignments to VeriGuide at a specified URL. The system will issue a receipt containing a declaration of honesty statement. Students should sign the receipt, print a hard copy of their assignment, and submit the hard copy and the receipt to teachers for grading.

The university says that assignments without the receipt will Not be graded.

Please check the website “Honesty in Academic Works” at:

<http://www.cuhk.edu.hk/policy/academichonesty/> for more information on plagiarism and on how to submit papers through VeriGuide.
