

New Asia College

For Local Student
(Revised in April 2019)

Introduction

In order to achieve the educational goals of New Asia College, residential halls were established to provide students with a decent learning, research and living environment, where they can enjoy a balanced development. Through living with others, they learn how to communicate and become independent and self-disciplined.

Appendix 3 Type of Residence Highest score: 35
Appendix 4 Extra-curricular Activities Highest score: 20

All final-year undergraduates from New Asia College, who have not been previously allocated student residence in the College (except Summer Hostel), can apply for the Guaranteed One-year Residence Scheme. Priorities are given to the aforementioned undergraduates and there are each 100 vacancies for male and female students. Places are distributed by a computer lottery system. (Undergraduates from Department of Medicine, Chinese Medicine can apply for the scheme from Year 2 onwards. / Undergraduates from Department of Nursing and Faculty of Education can apply for the scheme from Year 3 onwards.)
2. Residences for freshmen are allocated according to the following formula:
$$A \times C / B \times 1.2$$

A- Total number of vacancies (excluding those reserved for non-local undergraduates and exchange students)
B- Total number of local students from New Asia College

Organizations which are neither registered with Student Union, CUHK nor New Asia College Student Union and wish to submit their past records and housing program to the Dean of Students' Office for considerations of hostel points may submit the application on an annual basis. The concerned Committee will verify and consider such documents according to the nature and performances of their activities.

(B) To encourage communication and foster mutual understanding between local and non-local undergraduates, and to help the non-local freshmen to adapt to the life in Hong Kong, all local undergraduates may apply for having a non-local undergraduate as roommate. Applicants who have paired up with non-local undergraduates will receive 5 hostel admission points for one-year residence, and 3 point for one-term residence. The points will be counted in applicants' hostel admission in the following academic year (e.g. to pair up with a non-local undergraduate in 2017/18 academic year, and be eligible for claiming admission points in 2018/19). Should applications exceed number of non-local freshmen assigned to the College, applicants will be selected on a random basis. All successful applicants are not allowed to change their room-mates without reasons as accepted by the College.
