Research

Five Focused Areas of Research

To maximize impact and benefit to society, CUHK has adopted in its Strategic Plan 2006 the strategy of focusing its research investments in five already distinguished fields of academic enquiry within the University. They are:

Chinese Studies

The multi-disciplinary field of Chinese Studies is an essential source of understanding of all things Chinese. It is a flourishing field comprising five clusters of sub-areas which represent the combined strengths of academic staff from different units: language, literature and performing arts; heritage and history; social and regional developments; political and legal developments; public health and environment.

Biomedical Sciences

Biomedical research in CUHK straddles the conventional boundaries of academic disciplines and addresses health issues from the molecular to the societal level, contributing to progress in medicine, public health, and bioscience.

Information Sciences

On the basis of its significant presence in Information Sciences, it being the major internet hub for the region, CUHK strives to scale greater heights through theoretical and applied research, and to seek opportunities for technology transfer in the areas of theoretical computer science; information and coding theory; information security; multimedia technology and bio-informatics.

Economics and Finance

CUHK is particularly strong in the areas of Chinese economy, corporate finance and the emerging financial markets of China and Asia. It excels by virtue of its history and geography and contributes to Hong Kong's strength as a hub of international trade and finance through teaching, research, consultancy and public service.

Geoinformation and Earth Sciences

CUHK strives to become a national leader and global hub for the research, application and technology transfer of tropical monsoon environmental remote sensing by maximizing the benefit of such technology through research, teaching and public service to improve life, the environment and the economy.

Areas of Excellence

The University Grants Committee (UGC)* has provided preferential funding to the local tertiary institutions to conduct research into 16 selected Areas of Excellence (AoEs). Five ongoing projects are led by researchers at CUHK:

Centre for Research into Circulating Fetal Nucleic Acids

The project team discovered the presence of cell-free fetal DNA in the plasma of pregnant women, offering new possibilities for non-invasive prenatal diagnosis. The team continues to address a number of high-profile unsolved questions in the field of circulating fetal nucleic acids, including non-invasive molecular methods for the diagnosis of fetal Down syndrome.

Chinese Medicine Research and Further Development

The project further pursues the two formulae for promoting ulcer healing and cardiovascular health. It will not only set models for clinical evidence on the efficacy of selected herbal formulae, but will also establish models for clinical trials and drug authentication for Chinese medicine.

Centre for Plant and Agricultural Biotechnology

The aim of the project is to build a pipeline for biotechnology crop production, through identification of useful genes from elite germplasms; transfer them into designated crops (e.g., rice) to produce new lines with improved agronomic performance after conducting field trials and safety assessment.

Institute of Network Coding

With an aim to making Hong Kong a major centre of Network Coding, the world-leading Institute of Network Coding will conduct forefront research on the theory of Network Coding and its various applications on the Internet, wireless communications, information security, data storage and bioinformatics.

The Historical Anthropology of Chinese Society

This project will study 15 geographic areas in China to recover the history of both how local society identified with its own characteristics, and incorporated into the broad expanse of a unified culture. By comparing the time frame of separate local histories, this project will construct a history of China from the bottom up.
