

Dr Innes YP WAN

Dr Wan graduated from the Chinese University of Hong Kong and he received his basic and higher surgical training at the Prince of Wales Hospital, Hong Kong. He has been the clinical fellow at the Bristol Heart Institute, United Kingdom from year 1999 to 2000. He joined the Cardiothoracic Unit at the Prince of Wales Hospital since 1998.

His main research interests include minimally invasive cardiothoracic surgery, off- pump coronary artery bypass surgery, interventional bronchoscopy, endobronchial valves and robotic thoracic surgery. He is currently the Consultant Cardiothoracic Surgeon and Honorary Clinical Associate Professor of the Department of Surgery, The Chinese University of Hong Kong. He is the author of "Video Atlas of Minimally Invasive Thoracic Surgery". Dr Wan has been the reviewers of the Surgical Practice, European Journal of Cardiothoracic Surgery and Asian Cardiovascular and Thoracic Annals etc. He is the examiner of the College of Surgeons Hong Kong and the Royal College of Surgeons Edinburgh.