Companion to the Essentials of the Daoist Canon

Chief Editor: Lai Chi Tim

Introduction

Daozang Jiyao 道藏輯要 (Essentials of the Daoist Canon) is the fundamental Daoist anthology of the Qing dynasty (1644 – 1912), covering a wide range of topics including commentaries to Daoist and Neo-Confucian classics, inner alchemy, litanies, monastic and lay liturgy, moral instructions, epigraphy, and much else.

Daozang Jiyao Tiyao 道藏輯要提要 (Companion to the Essentials of the Daoist Canon) is the first annotated companion to the Daozang Jiyao. In this collection, 74 internationally recognized Daoist scholars provide well-structured information and detailed analysis for the 307 texts of the Daozang Jiyao and their associated commentaries, not only on the structure and content of the Daoist texts, but also from the perspective of textual history.

Companion to the Essentials of the Daoist Canon will not only contribute to a better understanding of Chinese religion of the Qing period, but also shed light on the philosophical, spiritual, and intellectual construction of China during the phase of transformation into its current situation. This collection will undoubtedly become one of the major references in Chinese studies, religion studies, and other humanities.
