

CONTENTS

Chief Editor's Foreword to the English Edition xiii

LAM Kin-chung

Foreword xv

An Ideal Superconnector in the Belt and Road

LEUNG Chun-ying

Chairman's Foreword xviii

Hong Kong to Scale New Heights in the Belt and Road Initiative

Peter Kin-ngok LAM

Chief Editor's Foreword xxii

Let the Belt and Road Become a Common Language and Project for All Participating Countries

LAM Kin-chung

Editors' Foreword xxvii

A "Concise Encyclopaedia" of Hong Kong in the Belt and Road

LI Xiaohui

List of Contributors xxxii

Part I National Strategy

CHAPTER 1

New Developments and Trends in the Joint Implementation of the Belt and Road Initiative /2

Overview

- I. New Dimensions in Opening Up
- II. New Dimensions of the Implementation of the Belt and Road Initiative
- III. New Developments in Belt and Road Trade Cooperation
- IV. New Progress in Infrastructure Construction
- V. Concluding Remarks

CHAPTER 2

Framework and Inherent Characteristics of the Belt and Road Initiative /40

Overview

- I. Framework of the Belt and Road Initiative
- II. Cooperation Priorities of the Belt and Road
- III. Inherent Characteristics of the Belt and Road Initiative
- IV. International Perspective of the Belt and Road

CHAPTER 3

Principles, Mechanisms, and Progress of Cooperation under the Belt and Road Initiative /59

Overview

- I. Philosophy and Principles of Cooperation
- II. Mechanisms of Cooperation
- III. Implementation Progress and Preliminary Achievements
- IV. Conclusion

CHAPTER 4

Regional and Strategic Priorities of the Belt and Road Initiative /80

Overview

- I. Regional Priorities of the Belt and Road Initiative: ASEAN, Middle East, Pakistan
- II. Regional Priorities of the Belt and Road Initiative: Central Asia and Russia
- III. Strategic Priorities of the Belt and Road Initiative:
Infrastructure and Trade Connectivity
- IV. Strategic Priorities of the Belt and Road Initiative:
Investment Liberalization and Facilitation, Financial Integration, and Industrial Focuses

CHAPTER 5

The Belt and Road Strategy: Conflicts and Challenges /107

Overview

- I. Conflicts between Major Powers: Sino-US Conflicts Being the Biggest Challenge
- II. Disputes between Neighbors: Japan, India, and Russia
- III. Cultural Conflicts: Religious Conflicts, Terrorism, Cultural and Institutional Differences
- IV. Geopolitical Conflicts: ASEAN, South Asia, the Middle East, Central and Eastern Europe
- V. Funding Constraints

Part II Opportunities for Hong Kong: Local Perspectives

CHAPTER 1

New Deployment of Hong Kong's Participation in the Joint Construction of the Belt and Road /138

Overview

- I. The SAR Government Sets Strategies, Establishes Organizations, Signs Agreements, and Holds Forums in Order to Encourage Closer People-to-People Ties
- II. Active Participation in Belt and Road Construction by Hong Kong People
- III. Hong Kong Should Be Positioned as the "International Service Hub" for the Construction of the Belt and Road

CHAPTER 2

Opportunities for Hong Kong under the Belt and Road and the New Economy /157

Overview

- I. New Trends in the World Economy and China's Economy and the Internet-Based New Economy Driven by Innovation
- II. Three Major Trends in Global Supply Chain Transformation under the Belt and Road
- III. Proposed Measures for Hong Kong to Seize Opportunities in the Two Major Economic Waves and the Belt and Road

CHAPTER 3

Hong Kong as a Platform for Capital Formation, Financing, and Wealth Management in the Belt and Road Initiative /168

Overview

- I. Belt and Road: National and Regional Strategy
- II. Channeling International Financial Flows
- III. Hong Kong as a Financing and Treasury Management Center in the Belt and Road
- IV. Conclusion

CHAPTER 4

Hong Kong's Key Role as an International Commerce and Trading Platform in the Belt and Road Initiative /186

Overview

- I. An International Commerce and Trading Platform for the Belt and Road
- II. Hong Kong as the Best International Commerce and Trading Platform for the Belt and Road

CHAPTER 5

Hong Kong as a High-End Professional Service Platform for the Belt and Road Initiative /199

Overview

- I. Obvious Advantages of Hong Kong's Professional Services Industry
- II. Necessity for Hong Kong's Professional Services to Be Aligned with the Belt and Road Strategy

- III. Hong Kong to Become Professional Services Support Center for the Belt and Road
- IV. Hong Kong to Become an Arbitration Center for the Belt and Road

CHAPTER 6

Hong Kong as a Diversified Tourism Platform in the Belt and Road Initiative /218

Overview

- I. Huge Tourism Potential along the Belt and Road
- II. Eight Favorable Conditions for Hong Kong to Become a Diversified Tourism Platform in the Belt and Road
- III. Eight Objectives in Developing Hong Kong as a Diversified Tourism Platform in the Belt and Road
- IV. Conclusion

CHAPTER 7

Hong Kong as an Emerging Industry Platform for the Belt and Road Initiative /240

Overview

- I. Basic Concepts
- II. Difficulties Faced by Emerging Countries in Developing Emerging Industries
- III. Characteristics and Strengths of Hong Kong to Become an Emerging Industry Platform
- IV. Hong Kong's Local Experience in Entrepreneurship and Creativity
- V. Construction of the Government's Institutional Platform
- VI. Conclusion

CHAPTER 8

Hong Kong as a Training Platform for the Belt and Road Initiative /267

Overview

- I. Talents, Not Money, as Bottleneck in the Belt and Road
- II. Hong Kong's Strengths in the Talent Environment
- III. Proposed Efforts for Hong Kong to Become an Adequate Training Platform
- IV. Conclusion

CHAPTER 9

The Forerunners of Hong Kong Enterprises in the Belt and Road Initiative /282

Overview

- I: The Role of Hong Kong Firms in the BRI
- II: A Case Study of a Large Hong Kong Firm Operating in the BRI
- III: Summary: The Advantages and Role of Hong Kong Enterprises under the Belt and Road Initiative

Part III Opportunities for Hong Kong: Cooperation Perspectives

CHAPTER 1

Cooperation between Hong Kong and Guangdong in the Belt and Road Initiative /302

Overview

- I. Strengths of Guangdong-Hong Kong Cooperation in the Belt and Road Initiative
- II. Key Domains of Hong Kong-Guangdong Cooperation in the Belt and Road Initiative
- III. Policy Recommendations for Guangdong-Hong Kong Cooperation in the Belt and Road Initiative

CHAPTER 2

Cooperation between Hong Kong and ASEAN in the Belt and Road Initiative /326

Overview

- I. Strategic Position and Functions of ASEAN in the Belt and Road Initiative
- II. ASEAN's Characteristics of Economic Development and Potential for Regional Cooperation
- III. Foundation and Potential for and Possible Role of Hong Kong-ASEAN Cooperation
- IV. Policy Recommendations for Enhancing Hong Kong-ASEAN Cooperation

CHAPTER 3

Cooperation between Hong Kong and Europe in the Belt and Road Initiative /347

Overview

- I. Strategic Position and Functions of Europe in the Belt and Road Initiative
- II. Current Situation and Characteristics of Economic Development of European Countries: Potential for Sino-European Cooperation
- III. Foundation and Potential for and Development Problems in Hong Kong-Europe Cooperation in the Belt and Road Initiative
- IV. Strategy Recommendations for Hong Kong-Europe Cooperation in the Belt and Road Initiative

CHAPTER 4

Cooperation between Hong Kong and the Shanghai Cooperation Organisation in the Belt and Road Initiative /373

Overview

- I. Synergy between the SCO and the Belt and Road
- II. Potential for Hong Kong-SCO Cooperation
- III. Necessity and Idea of Hong Kong-SCO Cooperation
- IV. Policy Recommendations for Enhancing Hong Kong-SCO Cooperation

CHAPTER 5

Cooperation between Hong Kong and Arab States in the Belt and Road Initiative /401

Overview

- I. Strategic Position and Functions of Arab States in the Belt and Road Initiative
- II. Characteristics of Economic Development of Arab States and Potential for Regional Cooperation
- III. Status Quo and the Future of Cooperation between Hong Kong and Arab States
- IV. Suggested Solutions for Cooperation between Hong Kong and Arab States

APPENDIX /421

A Chronology of the Belt and Road Initiative (September 2013–April 2019)