

Biography – Dr. CHU Cheuk Man

Dr. CM Chu is an Associate Consultant Radiologist with subspecialty training in Interventional Radiology. Dr. Chu completed his basic and higher radiology training in Prince of Wales Hospital in Hong Kong. He also completed his overseas Interventional Radiology observership programs in Memorial Sloan-Kettering Cancer Center and Johns Hopkins Hospital in the United States. He is currently the deputy Interventional Radiology service coordinator, Vascular & Interventional Radiology and Gastrointestinal & Hepatobiliary Radiology subspecialty training co-trainer in Prince of Wales Hospital. He is also Honorary Associate Professor of the Chinese University of Hong Kong.

Summary

Professional Memberships / Fellowships

European Congress of Radiology (ECR)
Cardiovascular and Interventional Radiological Society of Europe (CIRSE)
Royal College of Radiologists (RCR)
Hong Kong Academy of Medicine (HKAM)
Hong Kong College of Radiologists (HKCR)
Hong Kong Society of Interventional Radiology (HKSIR)
Hong Kong Society of Diagnostic Radiologists (HKSDR)
Japan Radiological Society (JRS)
Korean Society of Radiology (KSR)

Research Summary / Clinical Interests

HCC endovascular and ablative treatment
Endovascular treatment of TAA
Imaging guided thoracic and body procedures
Endovascular dialysis treatment
Imaging guided procedures for SBRT
Ablative treatment of adrenal, renal and lung lesions

Teaching

Chinese University of Hong Kong - Department of Imaging and Interventional Radiology

Hospital

Prince of Wales Hospital - Department of Imaging and Interventional Radiology