

Contents

Preface.....	xiii
Introduction.....	xvii
Illustrations	xli

PART ONE MOTIVATIONS

Chapter 1. Ideological Motives	3
Training Successors to the Revolution	3
Reeducating Young Intellectuals	7
Reducing the “Three Great Differences”	13
Chapter 2. Political Motivations	19
Reining in the Red Guards	19
Reinforcing Mao’s “Charismatic” Power.....	22
Chapter 3. Socioeconomic Motives	25
A Positive Motive: Developing the Countryside and the Border Regions	25
A Negative Motive: The Solution to Urban Unemployment and Overpopulation	32

PART TWO THE LIFE AND DEATH OF THE XIAXIANG MOVEMENT: POLICY CHANGES

Chapter 4. The Managers and the Ideologue: The Prelude and Interlude of the Cultural Revolution (1955–1966)	49
Modest Beginnings	51
Acceleration after the Failure of the Great Leap Forward	53
Institutionalization and Long-term Planning.....	56
Contradictions and Reluctance	60
The Cultural Revolution: An End to Departures and Spontaneous Returns.....	63
Chapter 5. The Mass Movement (1968–1976)	65
A Vigorous Start (1968–1969)	65
Transforming the Red Guards into Educated Youths	65
Massive Mobilization	70
Those Who Left and Those Who Stayed Behind.....	74
High on Fervor, Low on Organization.....	78
The Lowest Ebb (1970–1972)	81
Reform and Relaunch of the Movement (1973–1976)	88
Li Qinglin’s Letter and the National Conference.....	88
From Romanticism to Realism: The Zhuzhou Model and Improvements in Living Conditions.....	93
Xiaxiang and the Two-line Struggle: From Blank Exam Papers to Going through the Back Door	101
Models Who Had Taken Root.....	107
Educated Youth in the Fight for Succession.....	114
Mao’s Last Directive	118
Chapter 6. Irresistible Agony (1977–1980)	123
1977: Hua Guofeng’s Vain Desire to Continue	123
1978: From Uncertainty to a Limited Reassertion of the Policy	127
The End 1978 to the End 1979: Popular Resistance and Government Obstinacy.....	139
A Ferment of Protest	140

The Big Xishuangbanna Strike and the “Return Wind”	144
Tension and Conflict in Shanghai and Elsewhere	149
Government Strategy in 1979.....	154
Implementation at the provincial level and reassertion of the policy defined at the national conference	154
Political, administrative and police strategy in response to various forms of social resistance	158
Re-launch of “down-to-the countryside” propaganda	161
1980: The End.....	170
Returns and Employment Problems (1979–1980)	178
The Return of Examinations: A Saving Grace for Some Zhiqing	184
Chapter 7. The Shadow of Xiaxiang in the 1980s	187
Disappearance of the “Zhiqing Bureau” and Closure of Accounts.....	188
Keeping the “Little Fish Abandoned on the Shore” in Place	191
A Special Case: The Shanghai Zhiqing in Xinjiang	192
Placing Zhiqing Married to Peasants and Sick Zhiqing	203
The Case of Zhiqing Who Obtained Nonagricultural Work in the Countryside	204
A New Rustication Campaign?.....	206
The Seniority Issue	210
PART THREE FIRSTHAND EXPERIENCE
Chapter 8. The Conditions of Departure: “Voluntary” Deportation	215
Mobilization	216
Destinations	224
Departure Songs and Laments.....	229
Chapter 9. Material Difficulties and Low Morale	235
Difficulties in Adapting to Rural Conditions.....	236
The First Shock: Discovering the Backwardness.....	236

The Main Problems	238
Housing and living environment	238
Work, income, and food	248
Sickness and accidents	257
Leisure and cultural life	261
Difficulties Fitting into the Rural Community	265
The Main Obstacles	265
Obstacles to being accepted by the peasants	265
Obstacles to the zhiqing wanting long-term integration	271
A second surprise: discovering the peasant mentality	275
Relations between the Zhiqing and the Receiving Communities	279
Relationship based on realism	279
A limited reciprocal influence	283
Poor integration	287
Problems of Social Status and Group Identity	291
Demoted and Displaced	291
Defenseless	295
Solidarity and Competition	303
Problems with Individual Prospects and Self-fulfillment.....	307
Ruined Projects	307
A Rural Future?	309
Means of Returning	312
The Marriage Issue	319
 PART FOUR SOCIAL RESISTANCE
Chapter 10. The Social Control System	329
Chapter 11. Passive Resistance and Its Effects	337
Deviancy, Delinquency, and Parallel Culture	338
Negative Attitudes and Deviant Behavior.....	338
Underground Literature.....	344
Schmaltzy Music as a Political Crime	349
Political Deviancy	354

The Stampede Home and Its Consequences.....	356
Strategies for Returning Legally.....	356
Tricks and intrigues	356
Extended celibacy, divorce, and marriage motivated by self-interest	365
Hit and Run.....	370
Illegal return to the city	370
Defecting abroad	374
Chapter 12. Open Resistance	387
End-of-reign Tremors.....	387
1978–1979: A Trial of Strength between the Government and Society.....	392
PART FIVE ASSESSMENT OF THE XIAXIANG “MOVEMENT” IN HISTORY
Chapter 13. Socioeconomic Assessment	401
Diverting away from the Cities.....	401
Xiaxiang and Urban Employment.....	401
The Influence of Xiaxiang on Urban Growth.....	408
Xiaxiang and Delinquency.....	411
Rural Development and the Closing of the Urban-Rural Gap.....	413
Xiaxiang and Development.....	413
Reducing the Urban-Rural Gap.....	417
Chapter 14. Political and Ideological Assessment	421
Xiaxiang’s Political Stakes.....	421
The Ideological Objectives.....	423
Selection by Virtue.....	424
Transforming Zhiqing into “New-type Peasants”.....	427
Training “Revolutionary Successors” or Remodeling Youth.....	429
Conclusion	441
Economic Program or Political Movement?.....	441
International Influence.....	445

Xiaxiang and the Limits of Totalitarian Power	451
Death of Utopia and the Rebirth of Society	453
Glossary	457
Bibliography	467
Index of Places	499
Index of Persons	505
Thematic Index	509

The Chinese University Press