

Diana Wu David
Trainer
GoImpact Capital Partners

Diana Wu David is a former Financial Times executive and author of Future Proof: Reinventing Work in an Age of Acceleration. Diana teaches as an adjunct professor of leadership at Columbia Business School's EMBA Global Asia and for the Financial Times Non-Executive Directors Diploma.

Diana started her career working on high-level strategy as a management consultant and as an assistant to Dr. Henry Kissinger at Kissinger Associates in New York. She now works with global leaders, companies and boards to enhance their ability to adapt, contribute, collaborate and grow, and has consulted with or spoken to clients including the Mandarin Oriental Hotel Group, the World Bank, Expedia, Randstad, and Credit Suisse.

Diana writes about #inspiringfutures #responsiblefutures #fulfillingfutures for publications including Fast Company, Inc and Thrive and speaks globally on the future of work, corporate governance and boards, and East-West issues.

Diana has an MBA from Columbia Business School, is a past recipient of Asia Society's Asia 21 Young Leaders award and is a former Luce Foundation Scholar. She serves as Vice Chair of the board of the American Chamber of Commerce HK, and on advisory boards of Shared Value Project Hong Kong and Teach4HK and several private companies. She is also an active participant in Women Corporate Directors and The Women's Foundation, empowering women at all levels to lead and contribute.